

Most Difficult Key to Success: (Module 10)

I believe the most difficult key to success for me is patience. I often want instant gratification and don't like having to wait for things. However, I will have to continuously remind myself that Rome wasn't built in a day and I won't become a programmer or web developer overnight. I also will need to tell myself to not give up and that it will get easier the more I code, but it might take a little while. Bottom line: it's not a race. It's better for me to do good work in this class instead of just fast work. I believe I can do this!